Acknowledgements

I am grateful to Alexis Sanderson, Dominic Goodall and Harunaga Isaacson for initiating me into the philological study of Śaivism, and to Florinda De Simini for encouraging me to apply for a position in her ŚIVADHARMA PROJECT (ERC no. 803624), for sharing all the relevant manuscript material with me, and for leading the project in the most friendly and generous way through happy times as well as difficult Covid-affected years. While working on the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, I was also affiliated with another ERC project, the DHARMA PROJECT (ERC no. 809994), and I am grateful to all my colleagues involved in that endeavour, including Arlo Griffith, Emmanuel Francis, Annette Schmiedchen, Astrid Zotter, and Dániel Balogh.

During my visit to the National Archives in Kathmandu, the staff were as helpful and professional as ever. I wish to express my thanks to Jyoti Neupane, Manita Neupane, Saubhagya Pradhananga, Rubin Shrestha, Sahan Ranjitkar, and all other members.

I am grateful to Daniela Cappello, Marco Franceschini and Sushmita Das, who made great efforts to acquire manuscripts in Calcutta.

My colleagues and friends working in Naples or visiting Naples for shorter periods helped me on a daily basis, during our regular reading sessions and in every other possible way, and I am thankful to them: to Florinda De Simini, Nirajan Kafle, Kengo Harimoto, Giulia Buriola, Alessandro Battistini, Lucas den Boer, Torsten Gerloff, Kenji Takahashi, Francesco Sferra, Dorotea Operato, Daniela Cappello, Michael Bluett, Marco Franceschini, Martina Dello Buono, Chiara Livio, Margherita Trento, Nina Mirnig, Timothy Lubin, S.A.S. Sarma, R. Sathyanarayanan, and others.

Colleagues I have known for countless years, such as Judit Törzsök, Dominic Goodall, Harunaga Isaacson, Csaba Dezső and Gergely Hidas, are always the first to help and support me in every possible way.

I am infinitely grateful to my family for always supporting me unwaveringly.

CHECK REVISE!!!

The present publication is a result of the project DHARMA ‘The Domestication of “Hindu” Asceticism and the Religious Making of South and Southeast Asia’. This project has received funding from the European Research Council (ERC) under the European Union’s Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme (grant agreement no. 809994). Preface

Aims and problems

What is the raison d'être of this edition? It is essentially a new copy, and carefully prepared new version of a text called Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, based on multiple witnesses, augmented with an analysis of the contents, with contextualisation, and with an English translation. As for the critical edition, while I went to great lengths to understand the textual history behind the manuscripts used, it is obviously a deeply contaminated version of a text transmitted through contaminated witnesses. Nevertheless, I hope that this version is as close as possible to the authors' and redactors' original intentions at the time of assembling these chapters together, approximately in the seventh to tenth centuries. Of course we do not know if there was a single moment when the intention to compose a new text on Dharma under the title Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha was conceived or if there was one single 'original copy,'¹ but it this edition aim to be the most meaningful and most readable among all available copies.

Still, the present book is just a version of a text that likely never existed exactly in this form, inevitably showing signs of being an eclectic edition. Moreover, it may unintentionally exhibit characteristics of the 21st century (beyond the modern Devanāgarī typeface or occasional choices based on our contemporary understandings and misunderstandings) mixed with characteristics of the first millenium. We know that '[a]ll editing is an act of interpretation.'² Many of the editorial decisions I made were based on opinions expressed by colleagues during our regular reading sessions. Thus this edition is a result of the interpretative efforts of a group of scholars, and this may sometimes, though hopefully rarely, have caused contradictions.

To complicate matters further, we are publishing this long text in two volumes, with the second volume still in progress when the first is released. This may produce various problems: of interpretation, of internal references, of repetition, and most importantly, of presenting a text with embedded and recurring layers cut in half. To counteract some of these issues, I finished editing and studying the most significant chapters in the second part of the text (although all chapters seem increasingly significant as the editorial process progresses) by the time I completed the first part. Relevant passages from the second part can be found in the Appendices. CHECK A further minor issue arises when I discuss topics that I have already covered in Kiss 2021: some overlaps are inevitable.

¹ This reminds one of James McLaverty's question (as quoted in McGann 1991, 9): "If the Mona Lisa is in the Louvre in Paris, where is Hamlet?"

² McGann 1991, 27.

What is the purpose of this edition? The main objective of the ŚIVADHARMA PROJECT has been to better understand the function of individual texts within the so-called Śivadharmā corpus, as well as their relations and interconnectedness, or lack thereof, and thus to grasp the raison d'être of the corpus itself. My attempt is rather simplistic: to understand what the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha tried to convey when it was composed, and to explore why this text got inserted in those multiple-text manuscripts that transmit the so-called Śivadharmā corpus; but even if we do not fully understand the purpose and function of the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, to make a pre-eleventh-century Sanskrit text easily accessible in the twenty-first century is, I believe, a noble aspiration.

Introduction

The Śivadharma corpus

The Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha (VSS), a 24-chapter long Sanskrit Śaiva text, is almost always³ transmitted as part of the the so-called Śivadharma corpus, in multiple-text manuscripts that usually contain eight texts. Much has been written recently on the corpus itself and on the individual texts of the corpus within it. For an introduction and an up-to-date bibliography and the results of recent Śivadharma-related research, see De Simini & Kiss 2021. Since the VSS’s links to other texts of the corpus, with the possible exception of the Dharmaputrikā, are relatively weak, I will refer to other Śivadharma texts only when they are relevant for the present inquiry.⁴

Reading the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

The title

The title Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha can be translated as: ‘A Compendium on the Essence of the Bull [of Dharma].’ The last two elements (sāra-saṃgraha) need little explanation: this work is a ‘compendium’ on, a ‘collection’ or ‘summary’ of (saṃgraha) the ‘essence’ (sāra) of its topic. The words ‘compendium’ and ‘collection’ reflect the composite nature of the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha well; see sections on the structure of the text and on the its possible sources on pp. ?? and pp. ??ff. The remaining question is whether the bull in the title is only a reference to a representation of Dharma or also a hint at Śiva’s bull, his vehicle or mount, sometimes called Nandi or Nandin in other works.⁵

³ For cases that seem exceptions (Ko₇₆ and K₄₁^(paper) CHECK if more) see the manuscript descriptions on pp. 4ff.

⁴ Mainly in section ‘CHECK’ on p. xvi

⁵ There is no trace of Nandi/Nandin as identified with the bull in the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha. On the possible time after which Nandi or Nandin, originally a gaṇa was

Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

Dharma is frequently referred to as a (four-legged) bull, often as one that loses a leg in every Kalpa, in Dharma literature from at least the time of the Mahābhārata, see, e.g., MBh 3.188.10–12; and Manu 1.81a (catuṣpāt sakalo dharmah) and 8.16a: vṛṣo hi bhagavān dharmā.⁶

In addition, in Śaiva contexts, the bull of Dharma does feature as Śiva’s vehicle. See, e.g., Bakker 2014, 68ff, especially p. 69, where Bakker, after analysing seals containing images of bulls, remarks: ‘The topicality of the Śaiva accommodation of the Dharma in the second half of the sixth century is nicely illustrated by a myth found in the original Skandapurāṇa [...] the uncontrollable, wild bull (vṛṣa) is domesticated by Śiva’s Gaṇapa Prabhākara [...] In this way the bull is transformed into Śiva’s vehicle (vāhana).’ Putting it more bluntly: ‘Making the bull Śiva’s vehicle, implies that Śiva has become the supreme lord of the Dharma, or that the Dharma has been accommodated in [Ś]aivism’ (Bakker, Bisschop, & Yokochi 2014, 65 n. 210).⁷

The possibility that the bull in the title Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha refers not only to Dharma as a bull, but also to Śiva’s vāhana has been mentioned in De Simini & Mirnig 2017, 238 n. 13, and briefly discussed in Kiss 2021, 185–186 with the conclusion that although ‘while the bull as a synonym of Dharma is mentioned in the text repeatedly, [...] there is no clear reference to Śiva’s mount in the’ VSS, it is ‘not inconceivable that the redactors of the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha had the same association in mind, namely that the bull in question is both Dharma and Śiva’s mount.’⁸

Sanderson 2015 (210 n. 136), says the following on vṛṣa being Dharma in general, and on the bull appearing on the coins of the Hephthalite Hun Mihirakula in particular, also mentioning the VSS:

To laud the bull (vṛṣa) would be surprising if the intended meaning were the bull that is Śiva’s mount, but not if the word is intended in its figurative meaning, namely dharmah, or sukṛtam ‘the virtuous actions [prescribed by the Veda].’ For this meaning of vṛṣah see, for example, Amarasiṃha, Nāmalingānuśāsana 1.4.25b considered a bull, see Bhattacharya 1977 and Goodall, Rout, Sathyanarayanan et al 2005, 100–108 and 171–172.

⁷ Bhattacharya (1977, 1552) suggests that ‘In the Purāṇas the bull (Vṛṣabha or Vṛṣa) of Śiva is identified with Dharma, “virtue personified”. This is a new development to sanctify the animal vehicle of the god. This new situation took place with the religious rite when an offering of a bull to a Brahmin deemed to be of a high religious merit.’

⁸ Note that Śivadharmottara 12.87 also mentions the ‘Dharma bull’: īśvarāyatanaśyādhah śrīmān dharmavṛṣah sthitah | yatra vīravṛṣas tatra kṣityām gomātaraḥ sthitā ||

Introduction

(sukṛtam vṛṣaḥ), 3.3.220 (sukṛte vṛṣabhe vṛṣaḥ); Halāyudha, Abhidhānaratnamālā 1.125cd (dharmāḥ puṇyaṃ vṛṣaḥ śreyaḥ sukṛtaṃ ca samaṃ smṛtam); Manu 8[.]16a (vṛṣo hi bhagavān dharmas...); and the Gwalior Museum Stone Inscription of Pataṅgaśambhu (Mirashi 1962), l. 15, vṛṣaikaniṣṭho 'pi jitasmaro 'pi yaḥ śaṅkaro 'bhūd bhuvi ko 'py apūrvvaḥ, concerning the Śaiva ascetic Vyomaśambhu: ‘He was in the world an extraordinary new Śiva, since he too was vṛṣaikaniṣṭhaḥ (‘devoted solely to pious observance’; in Śiva’s case ‘riding only on the Bull’) and he too was jitasmarah (‘one who had defeated sensual urges’; in Śiva’s case ‘the defeater of the Love god Kāmadeva’). This is also the meaning of vṛṣaḥ in the title Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, one of the works of the Śivadharmā corpus (see, e.g., Sanderson 2014, p. 2), i.e., ‘Summary of the Essentials of the [Śiva]dharma’.

In the last sentence here, Sanderson implies that the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha is organically part of the teachings that we call the Śivadharmā corpus, and thus he adds Śiva in square brackets when translating the title Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha. A closer examination of the VSS reveals no direct references to either Śiva’s bull or to the bull as embodying the Śivadharmā. Instead, the bull in the VSS is repeatedly associated with the Dharma that is the four āśramas (see p. ??). My conclusion is that while the word vṛṣa in the title may well carry a reference to Śiva’s bull, it is always only implied and never explicitly taught, while the bull as the personification of Dharma as the four āśramas explicitly appears. Thus the title actually lacks any explicit hint to Śaivism,⁹ which fits in well with the rather blurred and multi-layered affiliation of the text to Dharmasāstra, Vaiṣṇavism and Śaivism.

Finally, as a fanciful experiment, and if one excepts that the VSS originated in Nepal,¹⁰ one could wonder if the title Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha has anything to do with the Licchavi king Vṛṣadeva. Sanderson (2009, 74) mentions that Vṛṣadeva is ‘described in an inscription of his eighth-century descendant Jayadeva as having inclined towards Buddhism;¹¹ a view confirmed by a local chronicle, which attributes to him the establishing of Buddhist images,’ and that this king established ‘the Caitya of the Sīnagu-vihāra (the Svayambhūnāth Caitya).’ More importantly, Sanderson summarises the information to be found in the Changu Narayana Pillar Inscription (east shaft),¹² namely that Vṛṣadeva was the great-grandfather of Mānadeva, whose ‘dated inscriptions range in date from 459 to 505/6’ [CE] (Sanderson 2009, 75).¹³ This would place the reign of Vṛṣadeva around 400 CE. The early fifth century may look too early for the date of composition of the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, and any connection between this king and the text is impossible to prove at the moment, but it is equally impossible to reject any connection, and if there were one, it would give some explanation for the slightly unusual nature of the title (‘... the essence of the bull’).

⁹ In contrast with, e.g., the UUMS C₉₄ fol. 184r ll. 3–4 (see Kiss 2021, 185–186): īśvara uvāca | na jānanti ca loke 'smin mānavā mūḍhacetasaḥ | catuṣpādo bhaved dharmāḥ śuklo 'yaṃ mama vāhanaḥ ||

The genre

Is the VSS a Purāṇa? There are at least two reasons to think so. One is the section VSS 1.63–76, a list of so-called *vedavyāsa*s, transmitters of Purāṇas, from Brahmā, to Vyāsa Dvaipāyana, Romaharṣa and his son. Why should a text include in its first chapter such a list if the implication is not that it is about its own origin?

Another argument is that the topics dealt with in the VSS are exactly what we expect from a Purāṇa. The famous purāṇapañcalakṣaṇa includes, following Wilson’s translation (in Rocher 1986, 26), the following: (1) primary creation, cosmogony and chronology (sarga); (2) creation, destruction of the world (pratisarga); (3) geneologies (vaṃśa); (4) Manu eras (manvantaras); (5) history (vaṃśānucarita).¹⁴ Arguably all these are present in the VSS, most of them already in chapter one, and later in twenty-one and twenty-four, plus narratives of the deeds of gods (e.g. in chapter twenty-three), and much more that one normally sees in Purāṇas.

Nīśvāsa book p.441: ‘Note that these sentences have been rephrased, in order to obviate the (metrical) need for prātipadikas in the Svacchanda (□□:□□ff). In one case, sparśatanmātra, the use of the prātipadika only obeys the metre if one treats the following ligature (spa) as not making the previous syllable long. It is possible that jihvāyāṃ is a corruption of jihvāyā, a metrically required lengthened form of the instrumental jihvayā. For the expression śrotraśabdatvam āgatam, cf. the Nepalese reading of the previous line in the Svacchanda (□□:□□cd).’

Introduction

Adhyāya 1 After a maṅgala-verse that addresses a deity whose identity is obscure (is it Śiva or the impersonal Brahman?, verse 1.1), we enter the first layer of the text, which comprises a dialogue between Janamejaya and Vaiśampāyana and could be labelled Dharmasāstric. Janamejaya wishes to hear the essence, the ultimate Dharmic teaching, of the Mahābhārata. In response, Vaiśampāyana starts relating a dialogue in which Viṣṇu, disguised as a Brahmin, is testing an ascetic called Anarthayajña, reknown for performing non-material sacrifice (anarthayajña, the topic of adhyāya eleven), and a devotee of Viṣṇu (which becomes clear in adhyāya twenty-one). This is the beginning of the layer one could label Vaiṣṇava. The first topic they discuss is brahmavidyā (1.9–10), and ambiguous definition of the impersonal Brahman and/or the syllable om. The next topic is kāla (‘death, time’), the origin of the body, karma (1.11–17), and the divisions of time (from truṭi, nimeṣa up to kalpas, 1.18–31), which leads to a teaching on numbers, from one up to two hundred quadrillion (para, 1.32–36). Verses 1.37–40 introduce a list of the rulers of the eight regions of the Brahmanḍa (1.41–49). In addition, Viṣṇu features as the ruler of the centre of the Brahmanḍa (1.50), reconfirming the general Vaiṣṇava character of this layer. 1.51–58 give the number of subordinates to each ruler mentioned above. 1.59–62 teaches the measurements of the Brahmanḍa. Finally, verses 1.63–76 list the redactors and transmitters of the Purāṇas, from Brahmā to Vyāsa Dvaipāyana, Romaharṣa, and Romaharṣa’s son Amitabuddhi.

Introduction

Notes on the language

The language of the VSS goes beyond the idiosyncrasies of epic Sanskrit. It exhibits strong similarities to Śaiva Aśa Sanskrit,¹⁷ and it applies particular metrical licences and uses a special vocabulary, morphology and syntax. The analysis of this language, ideally, could lead us to the author(s) or redactors of the text and to its place of composition. Here I only give a brief overview of the most important phenomena. For details see the observations on the constitution of the Sanskrit text in the footnotes to the translation (pp. ??), as well as the Index.

Newari?

- VSS too old for this comparison?

- metre?

Metre

As regards metrical licences, the first striking feature is the generous use of the poetic licence sometimes labelled ‘muta cum liquida,’¹⁸ namely that some consonant clusters that would normally turn the previous short (laghu) syllable long (guru) may in some cases do not do so. The syllables pra, bra, hra, kra, especially at the beginning of words CHECK, are well-known candidates for this licence.¹⁹ In the VSS, tra, vra, śra, pra, and also śya, śva, sva, dva, all involving conjunct consonants with a liquid sounds or semi-vowels in second position, and possibly also rpa, CHECK! seem additional ones.

The well-known author on prosody, Kedārabhaṭṭa (11-12th centuries),²⁰ frequently quoted by Mallinātha, gives the following definition in his Vṛttaratnākara (here given together with Sulhaṇa’s Sukaviḥṛdayanandinī commentary):

¹⁷ See Goodall, Törzsök, Hatley, Kiss, Meyr?

TRANSLATE the whole passage!

In this [work], a consonant cluster at the beginning of a word is called krama. A [preceding] long syllable can sometimes be turned short by that initial [syllable].

... TRANSLATE

Tender mustard seed, fresh porridge, and slimy curds: village people eat this kind of dishes, O beautiful goddess, due to lack of money.

To sum this example up: the verse given above (1.11) is in āryā, and the metric pattern of the second half-verse is the following: - . - . - . - . - . - . - . - . This yields 28 morae, instead of the expected 27. By treating the final syllable of sundari short, in spite of the following grā, the pattern conforms to the expected pattern: - . - . - . - . - . - . - . - .

The commentator gives several more examples (involving the syllables gra, hra, bhra), including this Śārdūla line:

nidravyo hriyam eti hrīparigataḥ prabhraśyate tejasaḥ

In this line, the last syllable of eti should count as short, in spite of the fact that the beginning of the next word (hri°) would normally turn it long.

The VSS abounds in this phenomenon of ‘muta cum liquida’. EXAM-PLES from the VSS and from my emendations. CHECK

- only beginning of words in the VSS?

Introduction

- final -am etc. counts as long (reverse of muta cum liquida)
- In Kannada and Telugu prosody, under the name of śīthila-dvīṭva, the exception is that sometimes in a consonant cluster of the form [consonant + “r”], the “r” (repha) can be ignored, so that it is not a conjunct consonant anymore.
- The exception is not accepted by purists: Shatavadhani Ganesh says that the Sanskrit masters like Kālidāsa, Bhāravi, Māgha, Śrīharṣa, and Viśākhadatta have not freely used this exception (though the masters in Kannada and other languages have). Being more of a “poetic licence” and a violation of the standard rule (only found in later poetry), it is extremely unlikely that any sane poet would have indulged in that exception in all four pāda-s of a verse. Thus it is very unlikely that the program will miss identifying a verse that indulges in this Hanneder’s Intro to Text Genealogy, Textual Criticism and Editorial Technique(Introduction): very useful summary, use it! Hanneder 2009 p. 5: ‘textual criticism is often viewed as something to be learned by practice rather from reading about it.’ ibid.: ‘In fact, both translating and editing are something most Indologists have learned in a pragmatic way through examples from within the field, and some have managed to become quite good at it.’ ibid.: ‘in most cases this approach is sufficient’

p. 7: basic method is common errors; age of mss, and number of mss preserving a reading is insignificant; Maas: only works if no contamination [but VSS must be deeply contaminated]

p. 11: Lachmann’s objective method with no subjective judgement (re-censio sine interpretatione) ibid.: ‘It seems that from these principles only the preference for the lectio difficilior made it into text-critical modernity, and even there reliance on it is sometimes rejected as too dangerous.’ Also uncommon and offensive readings are preferred. But nothing can be followed mechanically. inner criteria clearly not one author here; revisions? Reject phylogenetics slightly Even the best mss can containing a bewildering number of problematic readings, and ‘worse’ mss can give us clues as to how to emend the text... Mention MaSa.m: there was a stemma, but it was useless music: practice and theory It is a skill. Mention Sanderson’s approach.

In the pre-modern era, the VSS has been transmitted exclusively in multiple-text manuscripts that were produced in Nepal. Even when a manuscript of the VSS seems to be a single-text MS, chances are high that it originally belonged to a multiple-text manuscript.²¹ In the manuscript descriptions

²¹ As I remarked elsewhere (Kiss 2021, 185, n. 9): ‘Asiatic Society (Calcutta), Manuscript G 4076, cat. no. 4083, may seem to be an independent manuscript of the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, but as De Simini has already remarked (2016b, 240 n. 19) [= De Simini 2016b], it is probably from a multiple text manuscript. In fact, from what can be gathered from its below, in addition to some general remarks, I will mainly focus on information relevant to the VSS. For much more detail on the overall features of these manuscripts, see De Simini 2016b and the catalogues I mention at some of the individual manuscript.²²

In recently published and forthcoming critical editions of and articles on the Śivadharma corpus (e.g. Bisschop 2018 and Bisschop, Kafle, & Lubin 2021), the sigla of the manuscripts used are made up of a letter signifying the script (e.g. ‘N’ for Nepālākṣara/Newari), a superscript letter for the current location where the manuscript is deposited (e.g. ‘C’ for Cambridge), and two (sometimes only one or even three) subscript digits echoing the last digit(s), if any, of the reference number of the manuscript in the library where it is located or, in the case of NGMPP reel numbers, the last two digits of the first part of the reel number. For details of this system and for the underlying reasons, see Bisschop 2018, 50–51. Since in the case of the VSS all available manuscripts use some variant of the Nepālākṣara script, in this publication I omit the first letter, making the letter for the current location non-superscript. This helps keeping the apparatus readable. In the manuscript descriptions below, I give this omitted and implied ‘N’ in brackets as a reminder.

The Cambridge manuscripts

(N)C₉₄ Cambridge University Library, Add. 1694.1. This MS has been fully collated for chapters 1–12 of the critical edition in this volume. See a detailed description of this manuscript in the CUDL online catalogue.²³ According to this catalogue, the date of creation of this manuscript is the 12th century, its dimensions are 5 × ca. 53.5 cm. The script is Nepālākṣara. It is a palm-leaf multiple-text manuscript containing 258 folios and transmitting eight texts: 1) Śivadharmaśāstra, 2) Śivadharmottara, 3) Śivadhar-masaṃgraha, 4) Umāmaheśvarasaṃvāda, 5) Uttarottaramahāsaṃvāda, 6) Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, 7) Dharmaputrikā, 8) Śivopaniṣad.

The VSS occupies 45 folios: it starts on f. 193 (the recto side, online image no. 381, is an empty folio side, the text itself starts on the verso side); it ends on f. 239r (online image no. 473). The text of the VSS is transmitted fully, without any folios or major sections of the text missing. The leaves transmitting the VSS are well-preserved. Some folio sides are faded and most folios are somewhat damaged on the right side, sometimes at other parts, and it seems from the images that some opaque-looking tape has been applied to protect these damaged sections. In my critical edition the broken off, completely lost, akṣaras are represented by ×, the illegible akṣaras under the tape by CHECK (‘illegible’). The quality of the readings of this manuscript is one of the best among the available witnesses, comparable only to K₈₂ and P₅₇, making it one of the most important sources for the VSS.

Introduction

(N)^C₄₅ Cambridge University Library, Add. 1645. This MS has been fully collated for chapters 1–12 of the critical edition in this volume. See a detailed description of this manuscript in the CUDL online catalogue.²⁴ According to this catalogue, the dimensions of the manuscript are 4.4 × 61.7 cm. The manuscript is dated to (Nepala) ‘saṃvat 259 śrāvaṇa śukla dvādaśīyādi(?) < trayodaśyām,’ which converts to July 10/11 Monday/Tuesday, 1139 CE.²⁵ The script is Nepālākṣara. It is a palm-leaf multiple-text manuscript containing 247 folios. Eight texts are transmitted in this manuscript: 1) Śivadharmasāstra, 2) Śivadharmottara, 3) Śivadharmasamgraha, 4) Śivopaniṣad, 5) Umāmaheśvarasamvāda, 6) Uttarottaramahāsamvāda, 7) Vṛṣasārasamgraha, 8) Dharmaputrikā.

The VSS occupies 37 folios plus one folio side: it starts on f. 201v line 4 (online image no. 404), and it ends on f. 238v line 3 (online image no. 478). The readings of this manuscript seem to follow those of K₈₂ remarkably closely while transmitting the Śivadharmottara (as observed by De Simini

²⁴ <https://cudl.lib.cam.ac.uk/view/MS-ADD-01645/404>

²⁵ F. 247r line 6. The CUDL website transcribes this colophon as: saṃvat 259 śrāvaṇaśukladvādaśīpyādi 8 trayodaśyām (retrieved 8 Dec 2021). The element dvādaśīpyādi might be read as dvādaśīyā di, perhaps a mistake for dvādaśyām di (di for a misplaced diva/divā?), and the symbol that does look like a figure ‘8’ of a slightly later period than the manuscript itself (resembling the mathematical symbol <) might also be a kākapada. Another faint kākapada is perhaps to be seen under daśī, therefore it is possible that the scribe’s intention was to delete dvādaśī^o and correct it to trayodaśyām, and then the date becomes 11th of July. Kengo Harimoto has suggested that the unclear element (yādi/pyādi) is in fact ghaṭi, and after comparing these two syllables to other instances of gha and ṭa, one cannot but agree. In this case this should be an indication of the exact time (ghaṭikā) the scribe finished copying the text. It is still not clear if we should take dvādaśī or trayodaśyām as the date. For help on the conversion of the date and for a detailed discussion on the colophon I am indebted to Kengo Harimoto.

Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

and Harimoto).²⁶ This is more difficult to see in the case of the VSS, but indeed, they seem closely related.

(N)C₀₂ Cambridge University Library, Add. 2102. All available folios of this MS have been collated for chapters 1–12 of the critical edition in this volume. See a detailed description of this manuscript in the CUDL online catalogue.²⁷ According to this catalogue, the date of creation is the 12th century, and the dimensions of the manuscript are 4.8 × ca. 52.5 cm. The script is Nepālākṣara. It is a palm-leaf multiple-text manuscript containing 96 folios. Six texts are transmitted in this manuscript: 1) Śivadharmottara, 2) Śivadharmasaṃgraha, 3) Umāmaheśvarasaṃvāda, 4) Śivopaniṣad, 5) Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, 6) Dharmaputrikā (only f. 322v). Note that the Śivadharmottara starts on f. 51r, thus the part that most probably contained the Śivadharmasāstra is lost.

The Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha starts on f. 267r line 1 (online image no. 181). The online description labels this image as f. 237r. This first folio in fact has no visible foliation. The previous text, the Śivopaniṣad, ended on f. 236v, with pāda b of verse 7.122,²⁸ which is not the end of the Śivopaniṣad: about eighteen verses, probably transmitted in one single folio, are lost. This means that, if the foliation and the order of the folios are presented correctly, and if the portion containing the VSS indeed belongs to the same manuscript, folios 237–266, i.e. thirty folios, are missing. They must have transmitted the Uttarottaramahāsaṃvāda, which takes up twenty-three folios in C₉₄, and twenty folios in C₄₅. Thus this MS did most probably transmit all eight texts of the Śivadharmā corpus.²⁹

This first folio of the VSS is in a hand which is different from the rest of the manuscript, but the hand changes back in the next folio.³⁰

²⁶ Personal communication, 1 Dec 2021.

²⁷ <https://cudl.lib.cam.ac.uk/view/MS-ADD-02102/181>

²⁸ Image no. 180, Śivopaniṣad 7.122: yauvanasthā grhasthāś ca [prāsā]dasthāś ca ye nṛpāḥ.

²⁹ Compare with the claim of the online catalogue: “The present manuscript probably contained seven texts.”

³⁰ Cf. the metadata on the CUDL site: ‘1 folio of the same dimensions is a modern supply for the beginning of the Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha.’ A hardly readable note in pencil to the same effect is visible at the top of the first folio side (f. 267r, ‘mode..... supply beg of Vṛṣasāra-saṃgr.’). I am not sure how ‘modern’ this supplement is, but it seems indeed likely that a lost first folio was supplemented with a later copy. To match the end of this new copy with the beginning of the next, older, folio, a scribe more or less erased the beginning of the first line in the old folio, rather than the last line of the younger folio. This slightly illogical decision may mean that the younger copy was not tailor-made for the old portion, but rather that it was taken from a younger manuscript which was perhaps

Introduction

In this multiple-text manuscript, the VSS is transmitted in an incomplete form, that is to say, a number of folios are missing (most notably chapters 15–17). The first partially visible folio number is in image 184: the numeral characters 200+60 are visible (268v, according to the CUDL online catalogue). In image 186, the folio number 269 is clearly visible (f. 269v). In folio 270v, the continuous text is broken at verse 2.21c (kāmarū^o), ff. 271 and 272 are missing, and the text resumes on f. 273r with verse 3.30b ([ahimsā pa]ramam sukham). Folio 291 is missing (verses 12.87cd–12.113). In folio 296v (image no. 234) the text breaks off again at vātaśūlair upadrutā | śukro (verse 14.22b)³¹, the next folio being 306r (carmatāś ca dvijasundarīsu, verse 18.27b; nine folios and chapters 15–17 are completely missing).

Again, there are two missing folios after bandhus sarvva^o in verse 18.47c in f. 306v. The text resumes in f. 309r (image 237) with °neṣu ca sarvveṣu vidvān sreṣṭha sa ucyate (verse 19.52cd). Another folio is missing between iṣṭāniṣṭadvaya^o (verse 20.22, f. 309v) and snāyu majjā sirā tathā (verse 20.51d, f. 311r). The VSS ends on f. 322v (image no. 262) with the concluding colophon vṛṣasārasaṅgraha samāpta iti. This folio also contains the beginning of the Dharmaputrikā, but this multiple-text manuscript contains no more folios.

In the apparatus, the siglum C^Σ signifies all three Cambridge MSS described above.

See a brief description of this MS in the NGMCP online catalogue.³⁵ According to this catalogue, the dimensions of the manuscript are 55 x 5.5 cm. It is an undated palm-leaf multiple-text manuscript containing 74 folios. Four texts are transmitted in this manuscript: 1) Śivadharmottara, 2) Umāmaheśvarasaṃvāda, 3) Śivopaniṣad, 4) Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha.

Some folios feature monochrome drawings. A great number of the leaves that transmit the VSS are damaged and, at least judging from the microfilm images, faded and slightly disordered. The folio numbers are rarely visible. The VSS starts on exp. 44 (upper leaf, no folio number is visible here). The text continues on the lower leaf and then on the upper leaf on exp. 43 (going backwards, so to say) up to 1.62 (viṃśakoṭiṣu gulmeṣu ūrdhva^o). Verses 1.62cd–2.22 seem to be missing. The lower leaf on exp. 43 contains verses 2.23–2.39. The single leaf in exp. 42 contains verses 2.40–3.16a. Exp. 41 contains a single leaf of the Umāmaheśvarasaṃvāda, ending in a colophon for its chapter twenty-two, and still going backwards, the preceding folios continue transmitting the Umāmaheśvarasaṃvāda. Exploring the presence of the VSS in this manuscript further, one should look at the expositions after no. 44. Exp. 45 contains the end of the Śivopaniṣad. The single leaf on exp. 46 is almost illegible but most probably contains a fragment of the Gautamadharmasūtra. The second line just above the string hole on the left reads ... vīrud vanaspatīnāṃ ca puṣpāṇi svavad ādadīte..., which is a fragment of Gautamadharmasūtra 2.3.25 (12.28). The remaining parts of the VSS are to be found on exp. 47ff. The upper leaf on exp. 47 continues with VSS 3.16b–36ab, while the lower leaf contains a text that I have not been able to identify. The lower leaf in exp. 48 transmits 3.36cd–4.11ab, the upper one 4.11b–30a. The lower leaf in exp. 49 contains 4.30ab–47ab, the upper one 47d–68a, and so on so forth. Thus when reading the text from these images, after exp. 48, one has to start with the lower leaf and continue with the upper one.

(N)K₇ NGMPP B 7/3 = A 1082/2, NAK 1/1075. This MS has been fully collated for chapters 1–12 of the critical edition in this volume. See a brief description of this MS in the NGMCP online catalogue.³⁶ According to this catalogue, the dimensions of the manuscript are 58 × 6 cm. The script is Nepālākṣara. Dated to Nepāla Samvat 290 (1169–70 CE). It is a palm-leaf multiple-text manuscript containing 289 folios. Eight texts are transmitted in this manuscript: 1) Śivadharmasāstra, 2) Śivadharmottara, 3) Śivadharmasamgraha, 4) Umāmaheśvarasamvāda, 5) Śivopaniṣad, 6) Vṛṣasārasamgraha, 7) Uttarottaramahāsamvāda, 8) Dharmaputrikā. Ff. 209v–264v contain the VSS.

This is a nicely written manuscript, giving generally useful and convincing readings.

(N)K₃ NGMPP A 3/3 (= A 1081/5), NAK 5–737. I have collated this MS only for verses 1.1–15ab to test it. See a brief description of this MS in the NGMCP online catalogue.³⁷ According to this catalogue, the dimensions of the manuscript are 58.5 × 5.5 cm. The script is Nepālākṣara and the MS is dated to Nepāla Samvat 321 (1200–01 CE). It is a palm-leaf multiple-text manuscript containing 215 folios. Eight texts are transmitted in this manuscript: 1) Śivadharmasāstra, 2) Śivadharmottara, 3) Śivadharmasamgraha (only a few folios are extant, e.g. ff. 124 and 143), 4) Umāmaheśvarasamvāda, 5) Śivopaniṣad, 6) Uttarottaramahāsamvāda, 7) Vṛṣasārasamgraha, 8) Dharmaputrikā.

The VSS starts in f. 227 (image no. 177) and seems to end after it begins transmitting chapter 23 in f. 264 (image no. 218), but the last image (no. 253) also contains a fraction of VSS chapter 13. The microfilm images are somewhat blurred and the readings do not seem promising.

Other palm-leaf MSS preserved in Kathmandu, but not used for this critical edition include the following:

NAK 5–738 (NGMPP A 11/3)³⁸—the microfilm images of the folios containing the VSS are often blurred to an extent that makes them difficult to use.

NGMPP C 25/1 (Kesar Library 218)—this multiple-text manuscript preserves only a few disordered folios of the VSS.

Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

The Munich manuscript

M This MS is preserved at CHECK and has no access number CHECK. I have collated the readings of this MS only for VSS chapters one and five as a test. On this MS in more detail, see Harimoto 2022. I received the digital images of this MS from Kengo Harimoto shortly after he had taken pictures of it in Munich on Nov 16, 2021. This MS contains the following texts: 1) Śivadharmasāstra, 2) Śivadharmottara, 3) Umāmaheśvarasaṃvāda, 4) Śivopaniṣad, 5) Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, 6) Uttarottaramahāsaṃvāda, 7) Dharmaputrikā. The section that must have contained the Śivadharmasaṃgraha, ff. 82–121, is lost. The portion that contains the VSS and the Dharmaputrikā is dated (f. 50r line 5): || iti vṛṣasārasaṃgrāhe caturviṃśatimo dhyāyaḥ samāptaḥ | samvat 192 māghakṛṣṇadivāpañcamyām || postakalikhitaṃ iti ||. The year 192 in Nepāla Samvat converts to 1071–1072 CE. The part of the MS that precedes the VSS looks considerably earlier and is potentially an important witness for other texts of the Śivadharm corpus. An interesting feature of this MS is that it gives the number of verses contained in each chapter in the colophons. Ten folios that transmitted the VSS are missing: f. 5 (VSS 3.4–3.33), ff. 11–13 (VSS 6.20–8.45), ff. 24 (VSS 13.9–13.36), and ff. 39–43 (VSS 20.38–22.35).

The foliation for the VSS restarts and the hand in which the VSS and the Dharmaputrikā are written are different from, and most probably later than that of the texts that come before them in this bundle.

The MS often transmits unique and interesting readings but rarely convincing ones, and in general does not seem to be superior to any of the MSS described above. But at some points I did follow its reading against the other witnesses, e.g., at 5.1b.

The Paris manuscript

(N)P₅₇ This is a multiple-text palm-leaf manuscript written in Nepālākṣara script and preserved in the Collection Sylvain Lévi at the Institut d’études indiennes, Collège de France as MS Skt 57-B 23. I have collated the readings of this MS for VSS chapters three and eight. It contains 249 palm leaves. Folios 214 and 216 are missing from the part of the manuscript that transmits the VSS, thus we don’t have verses 1.60d–2.21ab, as well as 3.14–42 and 4.1–7. Foliation appears on the verso side: in the left-hand margin in Newari alphabetical numerals and in the right-hand margin in arabic numerals by a second hand. The portion that contains the VSS is fairly well-preserved and the text is written in a clear hand. Although it is an undated manuscript, it could be dated to the 11th century CE on palaeographical grounds. It contains the following text in the order they are presented in the manuscript: 1) Śivadharmasāstra, 2) Śivadharmottara, 3) Śivadharmasamgraha, 4) Umāmaheśvarasamvāda, 5) Śivopaniṣad, 6) Uttarottaramahāsamvāda, 7) Vṛṣasārasamgraha, 8) Dharmaputrikā. The VSS appears on ff. 212–252. This source gives reliable readings and contains relatively few scribal mistakes.³⁹

Introduction

The Oxford manuscript

(N)O₁₅ This palm-leaf manuscript is deposited in the Bodleian Library, in Oxford, under shelf mark Sansk. a. 15. It is dated to Nepāla Samvat 307 (1186–87 CE), and it contains 335 folios, transmitting the following texts: 1) Śivadharmasāstra, 2) Śivadharmottara, 3) Śivadharmasamgraha, 4) Umāmaheśvarasamvāda, 5) Śivopaniṣad, 6) Uttarottaramahāsamvāda, 7) Vṛṣasārasamgraha, 8) Dharmaputrikā.

A cursory examination of the text reveals rather disappointing readings, therefore I have not included in the apparatus any of the collation done.

The Kolkata manuscripts

(N)Ko₇₆ MS G4077 in the collection of the Asiatic Society, Kolkata.⁴⁰ This is a palm leaf MS, transmitting the VSS in 52 folios. The MS is dated to July 6, 1036 CE (Nepāla Samvat 156; see De Simini 2017, 542), which makes it ‘the oldest known dated attestation of the corpus’ (De Simini 2016b, 250–251). In spite of this, after collating this MS for 1.1–12 and 8.1–8, I abandoned it because its readings seemed rather useless.⁴¹

³⁹ This description had as its starting point a shorter description written and kindly shared with me by Nirajan Kafle.

⁴⁰ I am grateful to Daniella Cappello and Marco Francheschini for managing to obtain digital copies of most of the folios of this MS.

⁴¹ See, e.g., 8.1–8, as transmitted in this MS: pañcasvādhyāyanam ihāmutra sukhārthinā | saivasāṅkhyā purāṇaṁ ca smārtabhāratasamhitā ||8.1|| saivatatvaṁ vicintata saivāpāsūpatadvaye | atra vistarata prokta tatvasārasamucaye ||8.2|| saṅkhyātatvaṁ tu saṅkhyeṣu bodhavya tatvacintakaiḥ | pañcatattvavibhāgena kīrtitāni maharṣibhiḥ ||8.3|| purāṇeṣu mahikoṣa vistareṇa prakīrtita | āyoyaś ca tiryāṇ ca yatnataḥ samaveśayet ||8.4|| smārta varṇṇasamācāra dharmāṇyāpravarttakam | śiṣṭācāro vikalpena grāhya tatva asahitaḥ ||8.5|| itihāsam adhīyānaḥ sarvajñaḥ sa naro bhavet | dharmārthakāmamokṣeṣu saṁśayas tena chidyate ||8.6|| pañcoprasthavinigraha sṛṇuyāvamhito dvija | striyo vā garhitaḥ svargaḥ svayaṇmuktiś ca kīrtiyate | svapnopaghātam viprendra divās-

Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

(N)Ko₅₂ MS G 4076 in the collection of The Asiatic Society, Kolkata.⁴² Shastri 1928 (716–718) gives a detailed description of this manuscript along with the text of VSS 1.1–16. According to Shastri, the dimensions of the MS are 22½ × 2 inches (57.15 × 5.08 cm), the text is complete and the script is of the twelfth century CE.

This manuscript may appear as a rare instance of the VSS being transmitted independently, and not in a multiple-text manuscript, but it seems very likely that it was originally part of Ko₅₂ (MS G 3852), a Śivadharma corpus MS in the same collection lacking the VSS; see note 21 on page 3.

The Tübingen manuscript

I have not yet utilised MS Ma I 582 in the Universitätsbibliothek of Tübingen, a beautiful and nicely written MS. It seems to contain only sixteen folios that transmit the VSS, and they are from the second half of the text. Nothing appears to have been preserved from chapters 1–12.

Paper MSS? hidden

The London manuscript

(N)L₁₆ This is a paper manuscript in the Library of the Wellcome Institute for the History of Medicine under shelf number WI δ 16 (I–VIII). It contains 406 folios and the following texts: 1) Śivadharmaśāstra, 2) Śivadharmottara, 3) Śivadharmasaṃgraha, 4) Umāmaheśvarasaṃvāda, 5) Śivopaniṣad, 6) Uttarottaramahāsaṃvāda, 7) Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha, 8) Dharmaputrikā. This MS is described in Wujastyk 1985.

While collating MS L₁₆ for VSS chapter 22, I realised that it was to be a direct or close copy of K₈₂. A few examples to prove this will suffice:

K₈₂ (f. 40r) reads:

[spha]ṭikāṃ×ram [= °kāṃbaram] eva ca | daśayogāsanāsīno

L₁₆ (f. 38iv) gives:

vapnaṃ ca pañcamah ||8:7|| agamyastri divārsyase dharmapatnī ca vā bhavet | virud-dhastri na bhaveta varṇṇavarṇṇabhraṣṭādhikāma ca ||8:8||

⁴² I am grateful to Sushmita Das for attempting to get a copy of this MS in March 2020, and to Daniella Cappello and Marco Francheschini, who managed to do so.

Introduction

sphaṭikāṃsatam eva ca || devayogāsanāsīto supplying sa for the lost syllable and misreading the damaged da as de and the śa as va.

Here K₈₂ (f. 39v) reads:

[japo yogas tapo] dhyānaṃ svādhyāyaś ca daśa smṛtaḥ with dhyā and svā damaged;

L₁₆ (f. 381r) cannot read the bit that is completely lost, and it misreads the damaged dhyānaṃ as dhānaṃ, svādhyā as sādhu:

In the next example, the text is supposed to read kare grhya tapodhanam | tataḥ so 'ntarhitas tatra tenaiva.

K₈₂ (f. 39r) gives:

[kare] x x x x x dha\na tataḥ so 'ntar(hitas tatra tenaiva

L₁₆ (f. 38or) gives:

kare - - dhatāṃ tataḥ || sati hitas tatra tenaiva trying to make sense of the fragments. The examples above suggest that L₁₆ was copied directly from K₈₂ when the damage had already been done to K₈₂. For this reason, I have not collated its readings for VSS chapters I–12.

Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

Naraharinath’s edition

(N)E Much has been said of Yogi Naraharinath’s pioneering but problematic edition (the editio princeps) of the Śivadharma corpus (Naraharinath 1998): see e.g. De Simini 2016a, 66, n. 190; 2017, 542, Bisschop 2018, 58–59, Bisschop, Kafle, & Lubin 2021, 55. My impression of the text of the VSS in Naraharinath’s edition is that its quality is considerably inferior to those of the other texts of the corpus. It may or may not be Naraharinath’s fault; others must have been involved in the process of transcription, and the number and nature of the innumerable mistakes all over the text may also suggest a general problem with the typesetting process. Nevertheless I have recorded the readings found in this publication for all twelve chapters given in my critical edition.

Introduction

Editorial policies

- orthography: deviant orth, sandhi, punctuation? - avagrahas usually supplied but sometimes found in the MSS, not used by me for crasis (e.g. a+a=ā) - daṇḍas: usually 4 pādas to a verse, but I have made arbitrary decisions based on sense-units because none of the sources really indicate where a verse ends (||). - falsifications everywhere on purpose and accidentally

[Chapter Eight]

[niyameṣu svādhyāyaḥ (ṣ) —
The fifth Niyama-rule: Study]

pañcasvādhyāyanam kāryam ihāmutra sukhārthinā |
śaivam sāmṁkhyam purāṇam ca smārtam bhāratasaṁhitām || 8:1 ||

Five kinds of study are to be pursued by those who wish to be happy in this life and in the other. [One should study] Śaiva [teachings], Sāmṁkhya [philosophy], the Purāṇa[s], the Smārta [tradition] and the Bhāratasaṁhitā [i.e. the Mahābhārata].

śaivam tattvam vicinteta śaivapāśupatadvaye |
atra vistarataḥ proktaṁ tattvasārasamuccayam || 8:2 ||

He should reflect on the Śaiva truth in both Śaiva and Pāśupata [teachings]. In those teachings the whole essence of truth is taught extensively.

sāmṁkhyātattvam tu sāmṁkhyeṣu boddhavyam tattvacintakaiḥ |
pañcatattvavibhāgena kīrtitāni maharṣibhiḥ || 8:3 ||

Those who reflect on the truth (tattva) can grasp the truth of enumeration [of ontological principles/reality levels] (sāmṁkhyātattva) from Sāmṁkhya [texts]. The great sages taught [those twenty-five] tattvas [of Sāmṁkhya] as being in groups of five.

purāṇeṣu mahikoṣo vistareṇa prakīrtitaḥ |
adhordhvamadhyatiryam ca yatnataḥ sampraveśayet || 8:4 ||

In the Purāṇas it is the sheath[s]/layers of the world that are described extensively. One can definitely enter [the realms] below, above, in the 8.1 The form svādhyāyana, for the more standard svādhyayana, does occur in several, typically Buddhist, texts. See, e.g., the Mahāpratisarā-mahāvidyārājñī (Hidas 2011, 153): mahāyānodgrahaṇalikhanavācanapaṭhanasvādhyāyanaśravaṇadhāraṇābhijuktānām paripālikeyam mahādhāraṇī. Note the accusative ending of °saṁhitām. One may correct it to the nominative, or rather supply an active verb such as adhīyāt. I have chosen the latter in the translation.

8.2 Note that both śaivam tattvam in pāda a and the reading śaivapāśupatadvaye in pāda b are weakly attested. In spite of these uncertainties, I think that this form of the current half-verse is the only one that yields the appropriate meaning. Alternatively, read śaivatattvam in pāda a; compare 8.3a.

8.3 In pāda d, kīrtitāni picks up an implied tattvāni.

Translation of chapter 8

middle, and horizontally [all around].

smārtaṃ varṇāśramācāraṃ dharmanyāyappravartanam |
śiṣṭācāro ’vikalpena grāhyas tatra aśaṅkitaḥ || 8:5 ||

The Smārta [tradition] deals with the conduct of the social classes (varṇa) and disciplines (āśrama), and with the procedures of Dharma and lawsuits. Good conduct is to be gathered from it without hesitation, with certainty.

itihāsam adhīyānaḥ sarvajñāḥ sa naro bhavet |
dharmārthakāmamokṣeṣu saṁśayas tena chidyate || 8:6 ||

A man who studies the legend[s] (itihāsa) will become omniscient. [All his] doubts about religious duty (dharma), financial gain (artha), carnal desires (kāma) and liberation (mokṣa) will be eliminated.

[niyameṣu upasthanigrahaḥ (6) —

The sixth Niyama-rule: Sexual restraint]

śṛṇuṣvāvahito vipra pañcopasthavinigraham |
striyo vā garhitotsargaḥ svayaṁmukṭiś ca kīrtyate |
svapnopaghātāṃ viprendra divāsvapnaṃ ca pañcamāḥ || 8:7 ||

Listen with great attention, O Brahmin, to the five [spheres of] sexual restraint. Women, forbidden ejaculation, and masturbation are mentioned [in this context, as well as] offence while sleeping, O Brahmin, and fantasising, as the fifth.

[striyaḥ —

Women]

agamyā strī divā parve dharmapatny api vā bhavet |
viruddhastrīm na seveta varṇabhraṣṭādhikāsu ca || 8:8 ||

8.4 Note that tirya seems to be an acceptable nominal stem in this text for tiryañc. I understand the causative form sampraveśayet as non-causative. E’s silent emendation to samprabodhayet is understandable since to ‘enter’ these realms the study of the Purāṇas makes little sense, at least when taken literally. Kengo Harimoto has suggested emending to sampradeśayet.

8.5 Compare pādas ab with 3.15cd: smārto varṇāśramācāro yamaiś ca niyamair yutaḥ. The term smārta seems to be used here in the sense of Dharmaśāstra. The avagraha in ’vikalpena is not to be found in the witnesses and has therefore been supplied by the editor. The form aśaṅkitaḥ is less than perfect here, and may have been intended as an ablative (aśaṅkā-taḥ), as suggested by Judit Törzsök, or adverbially (aśaṅkitam), or even more probably as a loosely added subject (for aśaṅkitena).

8.6 As it is clear from 8.1d, what is primarily meant by itihāsa is the Mahābhārata.

Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

A woman is not to be approached sexually in the daytime and on the four nights of the changes of the Moon (parvan), even if she is one’s lawful wife. One should not have sex with a woman who is taboo or with one who has lost her class (varṇa) or is [of a] superior [varṇa than oneself].

[garhitotsargaḥ — Forbidden ejaculation]

ajameṣagavādīnām vaḍavāmahiṣiṣu ca |
garhitotsargam ity etad yatnena parivarjayet || 8:9 ||

Intercourse with goats, sheep, cows, mares, buffalo-cows is called forbidden ejaculation, which is to be avoided at all cost.

[svayaṃmukṭiḥ — Masturbation]

ayonikaṣaṇā vāpi apānakaṣaṇāpi vā |
svayaṃmuktir iyaṃ jñeyā tasmāt tāṃ parivarjayet || 8:10 ||

Rubbing himself against something else than a female sexual organ or rubbing his anus, are called masturbation (svayaṃmukṭi), therefore these are to be avoided.

8.8 Understand parve as parvani (thematization of the stem in -an).

Compare Manu 11.175 (Olivelle’s edition and translation): maithunaṃ tu samāsevya puṃsi yoṣiti vā dvijaḥ | goyāne ’psu divā caiva savāsāḥ snānam ācaret || (‘If a twice-born has sexual intercourse with a man or a woman in an ox-cart, on water, or during the day, he should bathe with his clothes on.’); and Manu 3.45 (Olivelle’s edition and translation): rtukālābhigāmī syāt svadāranirataḥ sadā | parvavarjaṃ vrajec cainām tadvrato ratikāmyayā || (‘Finding his gratification always in his wife, he should have sex with her during her season. Devoted solely to her, he may go to her also when he wants sexual pleasure, except on the days of the moon’s change.’) The nominative °strī in pāda in most witnesses may be the result of an eyeskip to strī in pāda a. Note how the paper MS is the only one transmitting a fully correct form.

8.9 Understand °ādīnām in pāda a as standing for the locative case. Understand °sargam as neuter nominative (instead of °sargaḥ) or alternatively understand pāda c with a hiatus bridge: garhitotsarga-m-ity etad.

8.10 The conjecture in pāda a involves minimal intervention and makes the sentence much more meaningful than the version transmitted. (Consider also ayonya°.) Compare Manu 11.174 (Olivelle’s edition and translation): amānuṣiṣu puruṣa udakyāyām ayoniṣu | retāḥ siktva jale caiva kṛcchraṃ sāntapanaṃ caret || ‘If someone ejaculates his semen in non-human females, in a man, in a menstruating woman, in any place other than the vagina, or on water, he should perform the Sāntapana penance...’ The variant strī for tām in pāda d in the E may be one example of the numerous silent interventions made by Naraharināth in his edition.

[svapnaghātam — Offence while sleeping]

svapnaghātaṃ dvijaśreṣṭha anīṣṭaṃ paṇḍitaiḥ sadā |
svapne strīṣu ramante ca retaḥ prakṣarate tataḥ || 8:11 ||

Offence while sleeping, O best of Brahmins, has always been [considered] undesirable by the learned. [If] one enjoys women while dreaming, his semen will issue.

[divāsvapnam — Daydreaming]

divāśayaṃ na kartavyaṃ nityaṃ dharmapareṇa tu |
svargamārgārgalā hy etāḥ striyo nāma prakīrtitāḥ || 8:12 ||

Sleeping by day should always be avoided by those who are intent on Dharma. These women are called ‘the bolts [that block the gate to] the path to heaven.’

The Cat Observance]

svaviṣṭhamūtraṃ bhūmiṣu chādayed dvijasattama |
sūryasomānumodanti mārjāravratikeṣu ca || 8:13 ||

[Hear about] the five religious observances [called] the cat, the heron, the dog, the cow, and the earth. He buries his own urine and faeces in the ground, O truest Brahmin. He rejoices [seeing] the sun and the moon when performing the cat observance.

[bakavratam —

The Heron Observance]

bakavac cendriyagrāmaṃ suniyamya tapodhana |
sādhayec ca manastuṣṭiṃ mokṣasāadhanatatparaḥ || 8:14 ||

8.12 It is not crystal clear why ‘sleeping by day’ or ‘daydreaming/fantasising’ should count as one of the offences against sexual restraint. A line may have dropped out here. Pādas cd are clumsy and out of context. They would fit verse 8.8 better.

8.13 Note °viṣṭha° for viṣṭhā metri causa in pāda c (ma-vipulā). Alternatively, read svaviṣṭhāmūtra bhūmiṣu (pathyā with stem form noun). Note the stem form sūryasoma for sūryasomau (sūryasomāv anu°) in pāda e. It is not entirely clear why cats would rejoice seeing the Sun and the Moon. Perhaps this remark refers to the fact that cats can be active both in the daytime and at night.

Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

O great ascetic, one should suppress all his senses like a heron, and should cultivate the peace of the mind, focusing on achieving liberation.

[śvānavratam —
The Dog Observance]

mūtraviṣṭhe na bhūmiṣu kurute dhunadaṃ sadā |
tuṣyate bhagavān śarvaḥ śvānavratacaro yadi || 8:15 ||

[He does] not [bury] his urine and faeces in the ground, and he barks constantly. Lord Śarva [i.e. Śiva] is satisfied when one practises the dog observance.

[govratam —
The Cow Observance]

mūtravarco na rudhyeta sadā govratiko naraḥ |
bhīmas tuṣṭikaraś caiva purāṇeṣu nigadyate || 8:16 ||

8.14 Cranes are compared to ascetics here probably because of the similarity of their posture when relaxing standing on one leg to ascetics performing penance standing on one leg (such as the ascetic, and a cat, depicted on the famous relief in Mahabalipuram). More specifically, herons apply ‘meditation,’ so to say, when fishing, as Olivelle points out commenting on Manu 7.106a (bakavac cintayed arthān), quoting Bhāruci’s explanation ad loc.: ‘Just as naturally in order to catch a mass of fish who are safe in their water—fort the ‘heron’ finds an effective means to take them by employing meditation, after dedicating himself to the task, so the king should not be despondent realizing that if one employs abundant thought on one’s affairs even aims very difficult to achieve are attained.’ Olivelle 2005, 298. (yathā abduṛgāśrayaṃ matsyabalaṃ svabhāvatā tadgrahaṇārthaṃ bakaḥ paryupāsanaṃ tadgrahaṇopāyaṃ dhyānayogād āśādayati, evaṃ arthacintābhiyogātīśayena suduṣprāpā apy arthā āśādayanta iti matvā na nirvedaṃ gacchet)

8.15 dhunadaṃ (‘barking’?) in pāda b may not be the intended form; perhaps understand dhunanaṃ (related to dhvanana), or emend to dhvananaṃ. A possible explanation for Śiva being satisfied with an ascetic practising this observance is that Śiva’s Bhairava form often has a dog as his mount. See, e.g., Bakker 2014, 232–233 on a 5–6th-century image of Bhairava and a dog carved in rock at Muṇḍeśvarī Hill not far from Vārāṇasī, and Mirnig 2013, 334. !CHECK This observance has ancient roots. Its practitioner, the kukkuravatika appears in Majjhimanikāya 2.1.7, in the Kukkuravattiyasutta, alongside with a practitioner of the govrata (govatika), an observance that comes up in the next verse in the VSS: evaṃ me sutāṃ. ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā kolīyesu viharati haliddavasanaṃ nāma kolīyānaṃ nigamo. atha kho puṇṇo ca kolīyaputto govatiko, acelo ca seniyo kukkuravatiko yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu... See Acharya 2013, 127–128. Acharya summarises the Kukkuravattiyasutta thus: ‘The Kukkuravattiyasutta from the Majjhimanikāya (II.1.7) presents a govatika together with a kukkuravatika. They are observing their vows, and have adopted the behaviour of a bull and a dog respectively. The Buddha tells them that as they are cultivating bullness and dogness, the state of mind of these animals, they will go to hell or become reborn as animal. They are alarmed at this and take refuge in the Buddha.’

Translation of chapter 8

A person practising the Cow Observance should never hold back his urine and faeces. This is a terrifying [observance] that gives satisfaction, [as] stated in the Purāṇas.

[mahīvrataṃ —
The Earth Observance]

kuddālair dārayanto 'pi kīlakoṭṣataiś citah |
kṣamate prthivī devī evam eva mahīvrataḥ || 8:17 ||

Splitting [the earth] with spades and laid out on hundreds of pointed wedges: Goddess Earth bears [this] patiently. This is exactly how one can practise the earth vow.

8.16 I prefer reading bhīma and tuṣṭi^o as two separate words, the first one either in stem form (C₉₄C₄₅K₈₂K₇P₅₇) or as bhīmas (C₀₂K₁₀E) or bhīmaṃ (em.), to reading these two words as a compound because of the following caiva. I suspect that both bhīma and tuṣṭikara refer to the vrata, rather than its practitioner, but I have not emended bhīmas tuṣṭikaraś to bhīmaṃ tuṣṭikaraṃ because vrata appears as a masculine noun, e.g., in 8.17d below.

Acharya 2013 gives a number of significant clues about the origins of this observance. After exploring its links to Pāśupatas, Acharya 2013, 116–118, quotes Jaiminīyabrāhmaṇa 2.113, which contains the phrase yatra yatraiṇaṃ viṣṭhā vindet tat tad vitiṣṭheta, in Acharya’s translation: ‘Wherever he feels the urge to evacuate faeces, right there he should evacuate.’ This is an instruction in a Vedic text that is close to what the VSS teaches above. Incidentally, the Jaiminīyabrāhmaṇa adds: tena haitenottaravayasy e [va] jajeta (translated in Acharya 2013, 118 as: ‘One should perform this [sacrifice] in the final years of one’s life’).

8.17 While dārayanto as an active participle in the masculine nominative is acceptable as an irregular form, the precise interpretation of pādas a and b is still problematic, therefore my translation of this verse is tentative and the description seems too condensed to be intelligible. Kengo Harimoto suggested that C₀₂ and E might be transmitting the correct reading, and then the reference would be to soil piled up by millions of insects (kīṭakoṭi^o), instead of points of wedges (kīlakoṭi^o). Nevertheless, now I think that the reference point could be Bhīṣma’s dying scene in the MBh, where the great warrior is lying on a bed of hundreds of arrows: sa śete śaratalpastho medinīm asprśaṃs tadā: ‘Then he lay there on his bed of arrows, without touching the ground’ (MBh 6.115.8ab). The word cita is used in the same context in MBh 12.47.4ab: vikīrṇāṃśur ivādityo bhīṣmaḥ śaraśataiś citah: ‘Bhīṣma, laid on a hundred arrows, was like the Sun with its scattered rays of light.’ If this interpretation of VSS 8.17 is correct, the observance described here may require one to dig the ground, install wedges, and lie on them, in the manner of fakirs. The reference to the Earth in pāda c may have been inspired by lines such as MBh 6.115.11cd: rarāsa prthivī caiva bhīṣme śāmtanave hate: ‘The Earth cried out when Bhīṣma, the son of Śāmtanu, was killed.’

In BhavP 4.121, called ‘The Description of eighty-five observances’ (uratapañcāśī-tivaraṇa), we find this on mahīvrata: dadyāt triṃśatpalād ūrdhvaṃ mahīm kṛtvā tu kāmcanīm | kulācalādrisahitām tilavastrasamanvitām || 152 || tiladroṇopari gatām brāhmaṇāya kuṭumbine | dinaṃ payovratas tiṣṭhed rudraloke mahīyate || 153 || etan

vratapañcakam ity etad yaś careta jitendriyaḥ |
sa cottamam idaṃ lokam prāpnoti na ca saṃśayaḥ || 8:18 ||

He who practises these five religious observances with his senses subdued will, without doubt, reach this superior world [i.e. heaven?].

[niyameṣv upavāsaḥ (8) —

The eighth Niyama-rule: Eating restrictions]

śeṣānnaṃ antarānnaṃ ca naktāyācitam eva ca |
upavāsaṃ ca pañcāitat kathayiṣyāmi tac chṛṇu || 8:19 ||

Eating leftovers, [not] eating in-between [breakfast and dinner], eating [only] at night, eating food obtained without solicitation, and fasting: listen, I shall teach you these five.

[śeṣānnaṃ —

Eating leftovers]

vaiśvadevātithiśeṣaṃ pitṛśeṣaṃ ca yad bhavet |
bhṛtyaputrakalatrebhyaḥ śeṣāṣi vighasāśanaḥ || 8:20 ||

[He who eats] the leftovers belonging to all the gods, to guests, and to the ancestors, he who eats the leftovers (śeṣāṣin) of servants, sons and wives, is [called in general] the one who consumes the remains of food (vighasāśana).

mahīvrataṃ proktaṃ saptakalpānuvartakam |

A tentative translation of this passage would go as follows: ‘One should donate a golden [model of] Earth that weighs more than thirty palas (appr. one kilogram), showing the chief mountain-ranges, together with [donations of] sesamum seeds and clothes, the sesamum seeds [weighing] more than a drona (appr. ten kilograms), to a householder Brāhmin. One should keep the milk-observance [i.e. subsisting on nothing but milk] for one day, and one will have fun in Rudraloka. This is called the Earth Observance whose range is seven æons.’ (I take the values for weights from Olivelle 2005, 997.) MatsP 101.52 gives similar instructions, as are the descriptions of the dharāvratā and the śubhadvādaśī observance in Kane 1941–1962, v. 5, 321 and 429. The VSS’s mahīvrata seems different, and more in line with the somewhat transgressive and wild, perhaps Pāsupata-oriented, nature of the four preceding observances.

8.18 Note the neuter idaṃ picking up the normally masculine lokam in pāda c, and that the same idaṃ would make more sense if the interlocutor were a deity, e.g., Śiva, referring to his abode, and not Anarthayajña, the ascetic. Perhaps emend to paraṃ, as suggested by Florinda De Simini.

8.19 Note how this category of niyama-rules was called upavāsa (‘fasting’) in 5.3c above but how in fact upavāsa is just the fifth subcategory withing this group of eating restrictions.

8.20 Pāda a is a sa-vipulā.

Translation of chapter 8

[antarānnam —

[Not] eating in-between breakfast and dinner] antarā prātarāṣi ca sāyamāṣi tathaiva ca |

sadopavāṣi bhavati yo na bhuṅkte kadācana || 8:21 ||

if he never eats between breakfast and dinner, he will be regarded as one who is always fasting.

[nakṭānnam —

Eating [only] at night]

na divā bhojanaṃ kāryaṃ rātrau naiva ca bhojayet |
nakṭavele ca bhoktavyaṃ nakṭadharmaṃ samīhatā || 8:22 ||

One should eat neither in the daytime nor in the evening, and should eat [only] at nighttime (nakṭavelā) if he wishes to follow the practice of [eating only at] night (nakṭadharma).

[ayācitānnam —

Eating food obtained without solicitation] anārabhya ya āhāraṃ kuryān nityaṃ ayācitam |

parair dattaṃ tu yo bhuṅkte tam ayācitam ucyate || 8:23 ||

He who consumes food only without initiating [the donation], without asking for it, and eats [only] that which has been given by others is called [one who eats] unsolicited [food].

[upavāsaḥ —

Fasting]

bhakṣyaṃ bhojyaṃ ca lehyaṃ ca coṣyaṃ peyaṃ ca pañcamam |
na kāṅkṣen nopayujīta upavāsaḥ sa ucyate || 8:24 ||

Chewable and unchewable food, food to be sipped or sucked or drunk, as the fifth [category]: if one does not long for and does not consume [any of the above], that is called fasting (upavāsa).

8.21 My translation here follows the parallel verse in the MBh and is based on the one in Ganguli 1883–1896. The syntax of the version here in the VSS is less smooth than that in the MBh, and the VSS’s reading prāntarāṣi definitely required an emendation.

8.22 Note °vele for °velāyām in pāda c. On nakṭabhojana, see ŚDhŚ 10.

8.23 anārambhasya (‘of someone who has not yet started/initiated’) in pāda a seems suspect, hence my conjecture (anārabhya ya) that involves minimal intervention and yields better sense. I take ayācitam in pāda b adverbially. Note the accusative with the passive in pāda d (tam... ucyate).

8.24 For a detailed discussion of the categories bhakṣya, bhojya, lehya and coṣya, see Kāfle 2020, 245, n. 534. See also ŚDhU 8.13: bhakṣyaṃ bhojyaṃ ca peyaṃ ca lehyaṃ coṣyaṃ ca picchilam | iti bhedāḥ śaḍannasya madhurādyāś ca śaḍguṇāḥ ||.

Vṛśasārasaṃgraha

[niyameṣu maunavratam (9) —
The ninth Niyama-rule: Silence]

mithyāpiśunapāruṣyatikṣṇavāg apralāpanam |
maunapañcakam ity etad dhārayen niyatavratatḥ || 8:25 ||

One who is disciplined in religious observances should observe silence [i.e. should avoid] with regards these five: deceitful speech, malignant speech, insult, abusive speech, and babble.

[mithyāvacanam —
Deceitful speech]

asambhūtam adṛṣṭam ca dharmāc cāpi bahiṣkṛtam |
anarthāpriyavākyaṃ yat tan mithyāvacanaṃ smṛtam || 8:26 ||

Fictitious [speech], [speech about] unknown [things], [speech about things] outside the range of Dharma, meaningless and unfriendly speech: these are called deceitful speech.

[piśunatḥ — Malignancy]

paraśrīm nābhinandanti parasyaiśvaryaṃ eva ca |
aniṣṭadarśanākāṅkṣī piśunatḥ samudāhṛtatḥ || 8:27 ||

One who does not rejoice in others' fortune or in others' power, one who would like to see something disadvantageous [for others] is called somebody utters malignant speech.

[pāruṣyam — Insult]

mṛtamātā pitā caiva hāni sthānam katham bhavet |
bhuñkṣva kāmam amṛṣṭānām pāruṣyaṃ samudāhṛtam || 8:28 ||

‘[May your] mother and father be dead! [May you have] failure (hāni)! Why [do you] even exist? Enjoy the love of unclean women!’ [These are] called insult.

8.25 pāruṣya seems to be the correct reading in pāda a, as opposed to C₀₂'s sambhinnā, because in the following a short section on the category of pāruṣya is coming up (in 8.28). As far as the readings sprṣṭavāg and prṣṭavāg are concerned, I suppose prṣṭavāg is not inconceivable (as suggested by Judit Törzsök), for in 8.29 it is, in a way, questions that are given as relevant examples. Another possibility, as suggested by Kengo Harimoto, could be mṛṣāvāg ('lying'), although this does not fully fit the corresponding examples. All in all, I conjectured tikṣṇavāg here, relying on the same verse, 8.29. As it will become clear below, apralāpa stands for asatpralāpa.

8.28 My translation of pāda b, or rather of the whole verse, is tentative. I am not at all certain that I understand correctly what these abusive words imply.

[tikṣṇavāk — Verbal abuse]

hṛdi na sphuṭase mūḍha śiro vā na vidāryase |
evamādīny anekāni tikṣṇavādī sa ucyate || 8:29 ||

‘Won’t you burst in your heart, stupid? [Why] don’t you break your head?’ [If one utters] these or similar [curses], he is said to be using verbal abuse.

[asatpralāpaḥ — Babble]

dyūtabhojanayuddhaṃ ca madyastrīkatham eva ca |
asatpralāpaḥ pañcāitat kīrtitaṃ me dvijottama || 8:30 ||

Stories about gambling, food, fights, drinking, and women are five [examples of] babble. [Thus] have I taught [reasons for observing silence], O excellent Brahmin.

maunam eva sadā kāryaṃ vākyaśaubhāgyam icchatā |
apāruṣyaṃ asambhinnaṃ vākyaṃ satyaṃ udīrayet || 8:31 ||

Those who long for eloquent speech should always observe silence. One should speak true words without insult and idle talk.

yaś tu maunasya no kartā dūṣitaḥ sa kulādhamah |
janme janme ca durgandho mūkaś caivopajāyate || 8:32 ||

He who does not observe silence is defiled and is the black sheep of the family. For a number of rebirths, [his mouth] will stink and he will become mute.

8.30 I take °katham in pāda b as an alternative nominative form of °kathā metri causa and as belonging to all the categories here thus: dyūtakathā, bhojanakathā, yud-dhakathā, madyakathā, strīkathā. There are various definitions of asatpralāpa, of which the most useful for understanding this verse is perhaps Siṃhabhūpāla’s (Rasārṇavasud-bākara 3.382–383): asambaddhakathālāpo ’satpralāpa itīritiaḥ (‘Relating something incoherent is called asatpralāpa.’) This is illustrated with an incoherent and illogical verse from the play Virabhadravijrmbhaṇa. Note the use of the singular next to a number in pāda c and understand me in pāda d as mayā. The latter usage appears in the epics, see Oberlies 2003, 102–103 (4.1.3).

8.32 The form janme for janmani often occurs in Śaiva tantras as a typically Aiśa phenomenon. See, e.g., NīśvNaya 1.86a (janme janme vimūḍhātmā, see Goodall, Sanderson, & Isaacson 2015, 114 and 191) and BraYā 45.8b, 45.2a, 55.9a (the last one reads janme janme tu yā jātim, see Kiss 2015, 83 and 128ff). Thematisation of stems in -an occurs also in the epics, see Oberlies 2003, 88 (3.10).

Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

tasmān maunavratam sadaiva sudṛḍham kurvīta yo niścitam vācā tasya alaṅghyatā ca bhavati sarvām sabhām nandati | vaktrāc cotpalagandham asya satatam vāyanti gandhotkataḥ śāstrānekaśahasraśo giri naraḥ proccāryate nirmalam || 8:33 ||

Therefore the speech of a person who always observes silence firmly, with resolution, will be impossible to ignore and it will make everybody in the assembly rejoice. The fragrance of lotuses CA [and other kinds of] SATATAM ! rich fragrances will blow from his mouth. Thousands of faultless śāstras will be declared in the words of this person.

[niyameṣu snānam (10) —

The tenth Niyama-rule: Bathing]

*snānam pañcavidham caiva pravakṣyāmi yathātatham |
āgneyam vāruṇam brāhmyam vāyavyam divyam eva ca || 8:34 ||*

I shall teach you the five kinds of bathing as they really are: fire bath, water bath, Vedic bath, wind bath and divine bath.

[āgneyam snānam —

Fire bath]

*āgneyam bhasmanā snānam toyāc chataguṇam phalam |
bhasmapūtam pavitraṃ ca bhasma pāpapaṇāśanam || 8:35 ||*

Fire bath is [performed] with ashes. Its fruits are a hundred times bigger than [those of a] water [bath]. For [anything] cleaned with ashes is pure. Ashes destroy sin.

*tasmād bhasma prayuñjīta dehinām tu malāpaham |
sarvaśāntikaram bhasma bhasma rakṣakam uttamam || 8:36 ||*

Therefore one should use ash for it purifies humans of their defilement. Ashes yield appeasement for everyone. Ash is the ultimate protector.

8.33 Note the ‘muta cum liquida’ licence in °vratam: the last syllable of mauna° counts as light. In pāda b, understand nandati as causative. To make sense of pāda d, we are forced to take śāstra as a stem form noun and naraḥ as a (regular) genitive from nṛ. (I thank Judit Törzsök for this interpretation.)

8.34 For a similar set of five types of baths, see, e.g., Parāśarasmṛti 12.9–11: snānāni pañca puṇyāni kīrtitāni manīṣibhiḥ | āgneyam vāruṇam brāhmaṇam vāyavyam divyam eva ca || āgneyam bhasmanā snānam avagāhya tu vāruṇam | āpo hi śṭheti ca brāhmaṇam vāyavyam gorajāḥ smṛtam || yat tu sātapaṇṣeṇa tat snānam divyam ucyate | tatra snātvā tu gaṅgāyām snāto bhavati mānavah ||. Similar passages are to be found, e.g., at PadmaP 1.47.4ff, Revakhanda 177.6ff, and in a citation attributed to Bhṛgu in Maskari’s commentary ad Gautamadharmasūtra 2.14.

Translation of chapter 8

bhasmanā tryāyuṣaṃ kṛtvā brahmacaryavrate sthitam |
bhasmanā ṛṣayaḥ sarve pavitrikṛtam ātmanaḥ || 8:37 ||

Drawing [the sectarian marks on their foreheads while reciting] the Tryāyuṣa [mantra], observing chastity, all the sages purified themselves with ashes.

Understand sthitam as sthitāḥ or rather sthitāḥ if we are to connect this line to the next (8.37cd). Understand pavitrikṛtam as pavitrikṛtvantaḥ. The reference here may be to a story in which Kaśyapa and other Ṛṣis are burnt to ashes, to be later reanimated by Vīrabhadra, in the Śokara forest. See PadmaP 5.107.1–14ff:

 aham tv imām || 13 || prāśnāmi mahatīm jvalāṃ salilam tṛṣito yathā | etasminn antare vīraṃ vāḡ āha cāsaririṇī || 14 ||.

8.38 The verse may refer to the destruction of Dakṣa's sacrifice, after which the gods were relieved. See old SkandaP 180.1–4ab (in which our pāda b is echoed): sanatkumāra uvāca | brahmādyā devatā vyāsa dakṣayajñavadhe purā | śāṅkaram śaraṇam jagmur vīrabhadrabhayārditāḥ || 1 || gaṇendreṇābhīyuktāś tu bhasmakūṭāni bhejire | yadā bhasma praviṣṭāś te tejaḥ śāṅkaram uttamam || 2 || abhavan te tadā raudrāḥ paśavo dīkṣitā iva | bhasmābhasitaḡtrāṇāṃ śāṅkaravratacārīṇām || 3 || svaṃ yogaṃ pradadau teṣāṃ tadā deva umāpatiḥ |

Vṛṣasārasaṃgraha

[Thus] the Pāsupata observance was created, which ranks above [the system of] the four āśramas. Therefore the Pāsupata [observance] is the best because it involves carrying ashes [on one’s body].

[vāruṇaṃ snānam —
Water bath]

vāruṇaṃ salilaṃ snānaṃ kartavyaṃ vividhaṃ naraiḥ |
nadītoyataḍāgeṣu prasraveṣu hradeṣu ca || 8:40 ||

A water bath (vāruṇa) is to be performed with water in different ways by [different] people: in the water of rivers, water tanks, streams and ponds.

[brāhmyaṃ snānam —
Vedic bath]

brahmasnānaṃ ca vipreṇ draṇ āpohiṣṭhaṃ vidur budhāḥ |
trisaṃdhyam eva kartavyaṃ brahmasnānaṃ tad ucyate || 8:41 ||

The wise know the Vedic bath as [the one performed with the Vedic mantra beginning with] āpo hi ṣṭhā, O excellent Brahmin. It is to be performed at the three junctures of the day [dawn, noon, and evening]. It is called the Vedic bath.

[vāyavyaṃ snānam —
Wind bath]

goṣu saṃcāramārgeṣu yatra godhūlisambhavaḥ |
tatra gatvāvasīdeta snānam uktaṃ maṇiṣibhiḥ || 8:42 ||

He should go where dust rises among the cows on the paths as they pass by, and he should sit down there. This is [also] called a bath, [namely the vāyavya or wind-bath].

8.39 One could simply accept the reading of C₀₂ (hetunā) in pāda d, but all other rejected readings hint at an original hetutaḥ (as remarked by Judit Törzsök).

8.40 The reading vividhaṃ in pāda b seems to be the lectio difficilior as opposed to the rejected vidhivat.

8.41 The R̥gvedic mantra starting with āpo hi ṣṭhā (RV 10.9.1–3) is traditionally associated with mārjana (‘cleaning, wiping’). According to Kane 1941–1962, v. 4, 120, a Brahmin ‘should bathe thrice in the day, should perform mārjana (splashing or sprinkling water on the head and other limbs by means of kuśas dipped in water after repeating sacred mantras) with the three verses ‘apo hi ṣṭhā’ [sic] (R̥g. X.9.1–3) [...]’ This suggests a method of bathing that is more of a ritual than an actual bath.

8.42 This version of bathing seems to be a way of taking a shower in the holy dust raising from under the hooves of cows.

Translation of chapter 8

[divyaṃ snānam —
Heavenly bath]
varṣatoyāmbudhārābhiḥ plāvayitvā svakāṃ tanum |
snānam divyaṃ vadaty eva jagadādimahēśvaraḥ || 8:43 ||

One should immerse one’s own body in the water-showers of the rain. The first and foremost Lord (mahēśvara) of the universe declares it as the heavenly bath.

iti niyamavibhāgaḥ pañcabhedena vipra
nigadita tava prṣṭaḥ sarvalokānukampya |
sakalamalapahārī dharmapañcāśad etan
na bhavati punajanma kalpakoṭyāyute ’pi || 8:44 ||

Thus have I taught you the section on the Niyama-rules in divisions of five [sub-categories to each], O Brahmin because you asked me to, to favour the whole world. These fifty Dharmic [teachings] wipe off all the defilement. There will not be rebirth [for one who follows these rules], not even in millions of æons.

|| iti vṛṣasārasaṃgrāhe niyamaprasaṃsā nāmādhyāyo ’ṣṭamaḥ ||

Here ends the eighth chapter in the Vṛṣasārasaṃgrāha called the Praise of the Niyama-rules.

8.44 This verse marks not only the end of a long section on the Niyama rules, but also the end of a major part of the text that discusses the ten Yama and ten Niyama rules, spanning 3.16–8.44. There are two stem form nouns in pāda b: I suspect that E is right assuming that in order to restore the metre, we must have nigadita, as opposed to nigaditas, the reading transmitted in all the witnesses; also understand sarvalokānukampya in pāda b as sarvalokān anukampya. Also, understand nigadita tava prṣṭaḥ as nigadito mayā tvayā prṣṭena.

Understand sakalamalapahārī in pāda c as sakala-mala-apahārī, which would be unmetrical, and compare it with duritamalapahārī in 4.89c. Take etan/etad as either picking up °pahārī or rather a plural corresponding to °pañcāśad. The latter phenomenon, namely the use of the singular after numbers, is one of the hallmarks of the text.

By ‘fifty Dharmas,’ the text refers to the ten main Niyama-rules, each having five subcategories (10 × 5 = 50).

The licence of an word-ultimate short syllable treated as long (°janma in pāda d) is also frequently seen in this text. Note also puna for punar metri causa.

[saptadaśamo 'dhyāyaḥ]
[Chapter Seventeen]

satyabhāmā svakaṃ bhartrā dattvā nāradasatkṛtam |
dānasyāsya prabhāvena akṣayaṃ tridivaṃ gataḥ || 17:50 ||

Satyabhāmā gave her own wealth (svaka) [equal in weight to the wishing-tree together] with [her] husband [Kṛṣṇa] as a way to honour Nārada. By the force of this donation, he [i.e. Nārada] went to the third heaven.

17.50 The interpretation of this verse is tentative. It seems to refer to the episode when Kṛṣṇa was given flowers of the heavenly wishing tree by Nārada. Kṛṣṇa failed to pass any of them to his favourite wife Satyabhāmā (note emendation in pāda a: an original -ā may have been misread as a visarga). Kṛṣṇa's blunder was remedied by a journey to heaven together, and by bringing the wishing tree from the world of gods to Satyabhāmā's garden. Nārada told Satyabhāmā that in order for her to have the tree in all of her births, all she has to do is tulāpuruṣadāna, one of the mahādānas. This involves donating as much gold as the weight of the donor. She gave Nārada as much gold as the weight of her husband, Kṛṣṇa, plus the tree. After this, Nārada departed to heaven. See Mani 1975 s.v. 'Satyabhāmā', and Padmapurāṇa 6.88.15–17: satyabhāmavāca | idṛśaḥ kalpavṛkṣo 'yaṃ patir etādṛśaḥ prabhuh | bhava bhava kathaṃ prāpyas tad ākhyātu bhavān mama || iti pṛṣṭas tadā prāha nārado munisattamaḥ | prāpyate satyabhāme 'yaṃ tulāpuruṣadānataḥ || satyabhāmā tadā kṛṣṇaṃ kalpavṛkṣasamanvitam | nāradaḥ sa prādāt tolaitvā vidhānataḥ | sarvopaskaram ākṛṣya nāradas tridivaṃ yayau ||
